

The Chaparral Sketch

Chaparral Artists members have been invited to the gardens on May 9th at 9:30 a.m. to paint, sketch, or photograph the gardens. I hope to see our members there.

This is an excellent chance to see the gardens now that they've matured. Also, if you haven't been there before this is a great time to see the work that Shirley and Bruce did on behalf of Chaparral Artists.

The Water Wise Demonstration Garden is located two blocks north of Hwy 62 at the corner of Park Blvd and Chollita Road next to the Joshua Basin Water District in Joshua Tree.

Take a trip to Moorten Botanical Garden

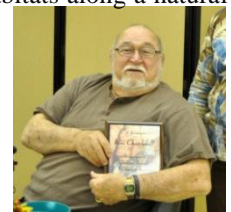

Editor

On May 26th Chaparral Artists will be hosting a trip to the Moorten Botanical Garden.

Moorten Botanical Garden is a historical landmark located in Palm Springs. This private arboretum was created by Chester and Patricia Moorten to share with everyone the beauty and extraordinary varieties of desert plants from around the world as well as their Mediterranean style home, called "Cactus Castle". There is a collection of more than 3000 varieties of plants designed in concentrated habitats along a natural trail.

The deadline to sign up for this trip is May 19th. Chaparral Artists still doesn't charge for hosting these trips and you don't have to be a member to accompany us. We only ask that you help pay

This month's meeting will be the final one of the season. Besides our monthly trips and a special paint out at the Water Wise Demonstration Garden in Joshua we will have one more get-together. It will be a Mexican themed potluck with Morongo Valley Art Colony at Covington Park in Morongo Valley in June. (There won't be a June meeting.)

Last month the club voted to not be in this year's Studio Art Tour in October. We will have our annual judged Harvest Show on October 14 so that it doesn't conflict with the Studio Art Tour.

See you at our meeting on May 14. Don't forget to wear your nametag.

Some of you may remember that Shirley James and Bruce Miller were honored by the Joshua Basin Water District for their work on the walls at the Water Wise Demonstration Garden in Joshua Tree in 2010. A plaque was installed at the entrance to the garden with the following inscription.

Garden Wall Art A Community Gift from Chaparral Artists

for the gas of the individual you are riding with.

We will meet at one of the local fast food restaurants we will then caravan to our destination. If you need a ride or have room available in your vehicle let us know when you make your reservation. Once we reach our destination it's not necessary to stay in a group. All that we ask is that you leave with the same people you arrived with unless other arrangements are made.

You can sign up for this trip by either calling 760-362-1976 and leaving your name and number stating that you would like to go on the trip or you can send an email to chaparralartists@hotmail.com.

Admission is $4.00 for adults and $2.00 for children 5 - 15.

Annual Spring Art Show

Editor

Chaparral Artists will be having their Spring Art Show this month. It is being held at A Roadside Attraction Gallery. This show is open to all artists and there will be separate groups for adults and youth. The categories are two dimensional and three dimensional. (No photographs are allowed in this show.) The subcategories are birds, flowers, insects, landscapes, man-made, other animals, people, plants & trees, still life, sunrise/sunset, and other. Any subcategory containing less than three entries will be combined with a similar subcategory.

Members of Chaparral Artists who have paid their 2011/2012 dues and kindergarten thru 12th grade students will pay $10.00 for their first entry and $5.00 for each additional entry. All other artists will pay $10.00 per entry.

Only artwork that has never been shown in a judged show hosted by Chaparral Artists will be allowed.

An entry form and a membership application are included with this newsletter and you can get additional artists tags at <http://patriciaquandel.intuitwebsites.com/Chaparral-Artists.html>.

At our April meeting George Antis explained how he worked on this painting while it was upside down.

You can take your entries to the Chaparral Artists meeting on May 14th at the Joshua Tree Community Center at 1:00 p.m. or you can drop off your entries at A Roadside Attraction Gallery on Thursday, May 17th, between 2 – 6 p.m. or Friday, May 18th, between 10:30 a.m. – noon. If you currently have artwork in the Spring Photography

Show you can pick it up at the same times.

Cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded at the reception on Sunday, May 20th. The reception runs from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m.

The show will be on display for a month and artwork can be picked up on June 14th between 2:00 p.m. and 6:00 p.m. or June 15th between 10:30 a.m. and noon.

An entry form for the show and a membership application are included with this newsletter.

2012 Las Vegas Painting Convention

Beverly Schmuckle

It was 9:00 a.m. and a gorgeous Saturday morning (Feb.25th) in the high desert. The kind of day made for a 150 mile long-distance trip. For seven months Jan Melchert, Dorene Fundin & I planned to attend the 21st Las Vegas Painting Convention being held at the Tropicana Hotel with a full week of non-stop painting. We were very anxious to get started. This would be my second time attending the convention and Jan & Dorene's first (the newbies).

We took two separate vehicles since I was the only one staying to take a Saturday & Sunday post-convention class with one of my favorite teachers. First stop was the

May 2012

Kelso train station, 125 miles from Yucca Valley. What a beautiful stopover. The rangers were quite helpful and invited us to take time to see the local art exhibit; a display of wooden cactus (3D) painted by young children with fantastic imaginations. The finished pieces were being offered in a silent auction to help make money for their school. Next stop would be at Stateline for gas then on to the Tropicana. The scenery was beautiful, rock formations galore, many photo opps.

Jan and Dorene were staying in a timeshare not far from the Tropicana. Registration check-in would begin on Sunday morning. Jan & I had signed-up to take a pre-convention class on Sunday evening, both in different mediums. The plan was to catch up to each other whenever there was time between classes, eating or sleeping. (I don't think any of us got much of that.)

There were 931 painters and 103 instructors in attendance. We had chosen our classes back in June so fortunately we got most of the classes we wanted. Over 170 classes were offered in many different mediums. Classes that were still open could be added. We attended renowned seascape artists

Joyce Ortner's class together. The only thing we had to make room for in our schedules was attending the convention itself.

There were more than 125 vendors offering their newest products at tremendous savings. The classes others. We were all very tired, but kept up the pace. (It wasn't always easy) The convention floor opened for attendees only on Wednesday morning, 9:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m. then opened to the public. There was a sea of painters gathered in the hall awaiting the bargains that were offered. It was GREAT fun when the doors parted to let us in, almost a free-for-all. We could continue our shopping 9:00 a.m. – 6:00 p.m. on Thursday and 9:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m. on Friday. The number of last minute shoppers was almost as many as Wednesday’s opening because the vendors added more sale items to their inventory.

Overall; each of us had a tremendous time, made many new acquaintances, learned new techniques and ideas, painted with fantastic instructors, and were very tired. There’s already talk about making the trek again next year for the 22nd Las Vegas Painting Convention. The catalog of classes should be available by mid-June. For more information go to www.vegaspaint.com.

Raini Armstrong

The 2012 Spring Photography 'Judged' show was quite fun this year. There were so many fantastic entries and I think I learned a few things regarding show setup and individual presentation. This was my first judged show setup so far, and I will admit that I was worried. Judged shows tend to be popular - which means more entries and the added steps during intake - accepting entry fees, separately creating tags to be placed 'after' judging, and sorting according to subject, made me sweat a bit. I am still in training, and thankfully I have some excellent teachers! Between the Chaparral president, exuberant show committee members and an especially wonderful woman that I can really rely on, and who knows the ropes, I was able to take it all in stride. These shows are all put on by people donating their time, wall space and even money, and I really am in awe of them.

Our judge this time around was a gentleman named David McChesney, a great photographer who I think captures the heart of the desert. His photos are not limited to this place I like to call home, but my favorite works of his are the flora, fauna and landscapes that begin to represent the magic of my home.

Now I will be the first to admit, I don't enjoy judged events. It is true that the result of a physical acknowledgment - a ribbon, trophy, maybe a mention of success, is neat and sometimes even helpful to boost your career or simply motivate you to do 'more' in the future. It is always nice to know that something about your work 'excited' others, or at least was clean and well presented. My experience, however, with judgment has always been mixed. Solid presentation can sometimes be considered more important than the subject, the subject itself might be ripped apart due to a minor flaw, or the meaning behind a subject may be misconstrued and the 'point' missed.

At times, even certain subject categories might be looked at under different 'lenses' because of the judges own artistic preferences. These issues lessen the enjoyment of contests for me, because I do not feel that everyone is truly playing on a 'level playing field. That being said however, there is always something to learn from the result if you have the heart to listen to even a bad review - and I have heard plenty of bad reviews over the years! Such opinions, taken in stride, have the potential to hone your craft, keep you on the right track to pleasing an audience, or let you know that you have already done what you wish - broken the Status Quo.

If anyone is still with me on this rant, the photo everyone is looking at here is a very tasteful nude male positioned behind a desert plant. It did not receive any particular mention from the judge but it was none the less a focal piece. I myself would stare at the photo just to see what was showing. Others thought the flesh might actually be a part of the scenery; so no matter what drew your attention into the photograph you were captured all the same while trying to pick it apart. I think the artist is definitely on the right track with this image!

I myself did well in the show, receiving several ribbons but when competing against friends there never seems to be a 'winner'. I enjoyed the show immensely and loved the entries. I, typically, was mixed in my agreement of the judges decisions, but overall I think I took away a few pointers to better my work in the future.

The Sun Runner

Hi folks,

Our new website for The Sun Runner launched this morning, May 2. There are a couple of things you should know about it that may be helpful.

First, businesses and organizations are welcome to create their free listing in our Places+ directory. Please note that the directory will be geographically sortable in the next few weeks. Folks can post reviews on the business directories, and those listings can be shared through social media and e-mail. This means, if people like your business and review it on www.thesunrunner.com; you can use those reviews to promote your business across social media and elsewhere, a pretty useful tool. If your business is a venue for events listed in our calendar, it may already be input. If so, please take a look and if there are details you'd like us to add (since we input it originally, we have to edit it, but will be glad to do so), please send them to me here. We are building the options for our enhanced listings right now, so those will be online soon and will allow more features.

Also, our online events calendar (which will also be geographically sortable in the next few weeks), allows users to input their own events, so please feel free to do so.

You can sort by category already. The calendar will be evolving in the next month to allow expanded features. Once again, you can share the event from our calendar on social media, and Like it on Facebook. This is a great way to build exposure and awareness of the event. Please continue to send us your calendar listings to calendar@thesunrunner.com, especially if you have artwork we can use in the Sun Blast and elsewhere.

Chuck Caplinger with some of his work at this year's JTNP Art Festival

Later this month, we will have online advertising, enhanced listings, and even enhanced event listings available on the site, along with social media campaigns and other online marketing options. I'm pleased to say that even though we just launched the site this morning, we already have folks sharing stories on Facebook.

We'll be constantly working on, and improving, the features on the new site, but I'm excited to have a search engine optimized website that will build traffic, connect our editorial more across social media and the web, allow for contributors from around the desert to help connect us with what is going on everywhere, and make the site a hub for information about the desert.

We're launching a contest soon for new columnists for the site so if anyone would like to be a sponsor and offer some prizes for the contest, etc., please let me know and I'll get you the details soon.

Please feel free to share your ideas or thoughts on the new site and let me know if you have any questions. thanks,
Steve

Letter to the Editor

Greetings 3D artists. We are looking for an artist to share space for the Art Tours show.

My name is Leslie Shaw and I am a stained glass artist. We will be showing at my house. My house is a good location for the show because it's on a busy, paved street only four miles from the intersection of Hwy. 62 and Hwy. 247.

The artist who is planning to share with me is Darlene H. Morris. She is a mixed media and acrylic painter. So she will be using the wall space, I will be using the window space and we want a third artist to show on the surface spaces. A ceramic, gourd, sculpture, jeweler etc... Artist would be ideal.

My home is at 58718 Buena Vista Drive in Yucca Valley and we are planning to show on the first weekend only.

We would be able to split the refreshment's cost and of course it costs less in registration fees to share a space. I think visitors like to stop at multiple artist locations.

Give me a call if you're interested. I share a cell phone with my husband, Stephen, 760-567-7921 or you can reach me at work at 760-365-3315 ext. 237 between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Editor – Contact Leslie before Thursday, May 10 if you would like to join her and Darlene for the art tour.

From the Editor

In the coming months you will see interviews of several people who call the Morongo Basin home. We are planning to interview artists, actors, as well as other people who have an interesting story to tell.

If you know someone whose story you think our readers would enjoy reading about please let us know at chaparralartists@hotmail.com.

As always we welcome articles as well as news briefs by our members and readers.
